NO REST FOR THE REBELS.

Gen. Lawton Plans to Natives Defeated by Outbreak the Dakota Men With Enemy. Heavy Loss.

MANILA, April 22.—7 P. M.—General Lawton took the field at daybreak today with a column of troops consisting of the North Dakota Regiment, two battalions of the Third Infantry, the Twenty-third Infantry, two guns of Scott's Battery, three troops of the Fourth Cavalry, and Gute's squadron, equipped in light marching order.

LAWTON MAKES AN EARLY START.

This force started at 5 o'clock this morning over the Novacelles road, traversing the country previously cleared of rebels, but subsequently re-occupied by them.

It is to be presumed that General Lawton by this movement will outflank the enemy before joining General MacArthur north of Novacelles.

THE ENEMY MET AND ROUTED.

The Dakota Regiment first encountered the enemy in front of Novacelles at 8 A. M. The rebels opened fire on our troops, but their fire was silenced fifteen minutes later, the enemy retreating in bad order and the Americans advancing along the rough roads around Novacelles.

They were considerably annoyed by the fire of the rebel sharpshooters from the jungle for two hours.

THE REBEL LOSS A HEAVY ONE.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the rebels were in full flight, leaving many dead on the field, and our troops were compelled to take a brief rest in the shade, as the heat was overpowering.

WATSON'S NEW FLYING COLUMN.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The War Department today received a telegram from General Otis announcing the formation of a new flying column under command of General Lawton and the initiation of a new campaign, which is expected to result in clearing out the jungle in the country north of Manila up to the foothills of the mountains on the northward and in the termination of the railroad at Bulacan.

The text of the dispatch was not made public, but it is understood to agree closely with the accounts of the movements contained in the Associated Press dispatches from Manila.

FIGHTING FOR THEIR HOMES.

Missouri River Rising Fast and Farmers in Danger.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 22.—The Missouri river has risen a foot at this point during the last twenty-four hours, and is higher now than it has been this spring. There has been no loss of life, as a large force of workmen has been strengthening the levee. The break in the levee, which is about eight miles from here, is about 200 feet in width. The bottom lands are covered and many people have had to move out of their homes. The railroad tracks have not yet been damaged, and as the water is receding above it, it is expected that the damage will not be great.

The farmers in the river bottoms have organized a force and are working the levee.

RIVER RISING FAST.

KANSAS CITY, April 22.—The Missouri river has continued to rise during the past twenty-four hours, though at not so great a rate as for the past four days. Already squatters on the lowlands between here and St. Joseph are moving their effects to higher ground, and farmers are getting their stock and property to safe places. At Kansas City, Leavenworth and St. Joseph much land is already under water, but no serious damage has resulted. The Burlington tracks between Kansas City and East Atchison are partially submerged.

Local officials, packing houses and property manufacturing plants along the river have been warned and are taking proper precautions.

At Kansas City, Kas., the river is very high and is rising rapidly.

PIEGGS AT OMAHA.

OMAHA, Neb., April 22.—The Missouri river rose several points here last night, and a large portion of the land on the low bottoms is overflowed. It is still rising slowly but steadily, and no one appears to know how much higher it is likely to go, as a further rise is expected from above. Many railroad tracks on the bottom lands under water and a strong current which comes down the river has washed away the tracks.

THE AMERICAN END.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Play at the cable chess match was resumed today on live boards. Meyer of Columbia having won his game against the Oxford man, George, yesterday afternoon.

At 11:30, End, American, at the first table, offered a draw to his opponent, but the Englishman declined. It is the opinion that if either tries to win he will lose.

At 1:30 Young of Princeton decided that he had lost all his points and resigned his game to Ells of Oxford.

PLAYING CHESS BY CABLE.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LONDON, April 22.—There was a large audience today at the cable chess match. Lord Crawford, who is acting as the American, advanced the general opinion at the British Press club this afternoon that the prospects of the Oxford-Cambridge players had brightened. It was expected that the home players would draw the first blood at the first board.

Local officials, packing houses and property manufacturing plants along the river have been warned and are taking proper precautions.

At Kansas City, Kas., the river is very high and is rising rapidly.

AGED WOMAN FOUND DEAD AT SAN LEANDRO.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

Mrs. Nunes, an aged widow of San Leandro, was found dead in her yard by a neighbor this morning. While no cause is given for the woman's death the supposition is that she died from heart failure.

Deceased was a native of Chile, aged 75 years. An inquest will be held in San Leandro.

MORE EXPERT TESTIMONY.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

WILLOWS, April 22.—Handwriting expert Carl R. Elsenschmid was on the witness stand all the morning in the Murdoch case. He pointed out to the jury the difference in the parallels of the letters made by William Murdoch as made in the admitted and questioned signatures. The jury was handed photographic exhibits, and Elsenschmid's testimony was read according to these charts.

A dissection on curves and strokes as appearing in the admitted and questioned signatures was the order and when the court adjourned at noon this was still going on.

COMPLAIN OF ILL-TREATMENT.

Samoan Germans Say Harsh Things of the British.

Blue and Gold.

The Blue and Gold is for sale at M. S. Smith & Sons' in this city.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

BERLIN, April 22.—The Lokal Anzeiger today publishes two letters from Samoa, dated March 23. One of them is from its special correspondent of Apia, Herr Wolffersdorff, and the other from Herr Marquardt, a prominent German resident of Apia, who under Tamasese was military instructor, and later, under Mataafa, and the provisional government, was Justice of the Peace until he resigned on the departure of Dr. Ruffe, the German President of the municipal government of Apia.

From Herr Marquardt's letter it appears that it was he, and not Herr Hoffmeyer, who was appointed Captain Sturdee, commander of the British warship Porpoise, for bearing arms against the British sailors. He says he was taken on board the Porpoise, where he claims he was grossly insulted by Captain Sturdee, and that after fourteen hours' captivity, during which no proof against him was advanced, he was transferred to the German warship Falke, but on the understanding that he was not to leave her.

Herr Marquardt asserts that his property was stolen and destroyed by Matelot Tam's hosts, and that millions of other German property was likewise destroyed. The writer then asks who will pay the damages.

Herr Von Wolffersdorff asserts that the British Consul, Mr. Mansie, and Captain Sturdee are both guilty of gross insult, exceeding their troops' powers. He claims they treated the German sailors with contempt, and that they were compelled to sleep in German houses under various pretenses.

He adds that the most intense indignation prevailed among the Samoan Germans against the British excesses.

YORKTOWN HEARD FROM.

Fred Perkins and Sam Knowles at the Islands.

A DERBY DAY FOR FABIOLA.

Great Preparations Society Will Be at the Local Race Course.

Tell of the Landing Parties From the Gunboat.

Through the kindness of Mrs. W. T. Welch the Tribune is enabled to publish portions of letters just received from her son, Samuel H. Knowles, giving late and spirited accounts of the doings of the United States gunboat Yorktown, which, through the loss of a boat's crew, on one of the landings such as he describes, has become a central figure in the eyes of the nation.

The writer, a well known Oakland boy, a youth of 24, is assistant paymaster of the Yorktown. Together with Fred Perkins, the son of United States Senator George C. Perkins, who is that vessel's paymaster, young Knowles, although not liable for such duty, volunteered for extra hazardous service ashore of the same nature as that in which the next landing party was mysteriously lost. For this piece of bravery, as Mrs. Welch is independently informed, a cable dispatch has been forwarded from Manila recommending the promotion of her son.

Mrs. Welch is one of those daughters of Oakland whom the soldiers of the whole nation rise to praise and bless. She was the very life, as well as a high officer, of the Oakland Red Cross Society during the early days of the war, working day and night for the arriving and departing troops, providing comforts and necessities for the camp and the transports, and entertaining many of the officers and soldiers in her elegant home.

In a letter dated Leyte Gulf, March 21, Sam Knowles says:

"Well, here we are again good work and now we get back to Manila. Admiral Dewey will think that the Yorktown is all right. We captured the San Joaquin steamer, the first prize of the insurrection war. It was by the Captain's good nerve that we did it. Several United States gunboats have been around this gulf, but none of them have ventured in but Captain Sperry of the Yorktown, and by so doing he has captured a steamer that has been great help to the insurgents, supplying them with guns and provisions. They had made her look like a house at a distance, by building a hammock over her. They had indeed cut her cables and she would not be moved, so we made a couple of cylinder heads ourselves, put them on her, got up steam and left them on the beach wondering how we did it. The chief engineer let me keep blowing the whistle in their faces."

"Here is where our fun started in. The Captain called for a landing party. First Lieutenant Thomas, Ensign Starkey, Fred (the son of Senator Perkins) and myself went ashore with about thirty men. The natives deserted their houses and made for the woods. This was a sight to see, the women with the babies were in their arms on the run. They were all in sight. They had hidden behind banks of earth. Ensign Starkey (the one survivor of the sub-squadron Yorktown) held on Monday morning from either the Church of the Advent or St. Paul's Episcopal Church. During the funeral the courts will be closed.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD AT HER HOME.

Mrs. Kate Wagnon, who kept a small grocery at the corner of Sixteenth and Jefferson streets, was found dead in her bed at noon today. For more than a week deceased had complained of pains in the region of her heart but no physician. Her death is attributed to heart failure.

Recently Mr. Pringle was elected Supreme Court Commissioner by the Supreme Judges, and had but just comfortably located himself in his new office when the fatal illness came.

The widow and seven children survive the deceased. They are Edward J. Pringle, W. R. Pringle, and Mrs. Frank Fitchburg, the widow of the late Dr. C. C. Shinnick, and Dr. J. M. Schindler, who came in consultation. They will now have the services to whom they are accustomed, but would like to stay at the end as long as possible. Despite everything known to medical science, death's mantle fell.

The death of Mr. Pringle removes from a sphere of usefulness a public-spirited citizen, who has been closely identified with the progress of Oakland. As an attorney, he ranked among the foremost, in California, and was one of the counsels in the celebrated Oakland trial from 1886. He was a member of the board of Freeholders, who drafted the present city charter for Oakland.

OFFICE-SEEKERS ARE IN SORE DISTRESS.

The Governor Is "Making Haste Slowly" as Regards His Appointments--Frank Ryan Mentioned for Code Commissioner--Democrats Wrathful Over the State Library Changes--Municipal Politics Bubbling Across the Bay--A Spirited Fight for the Port Wardenship.

Special to The Tribune. SAN FRANCISCO, April 22--Governor Gage becomes more and more an enigma each day to the hosts of office-seekers whose watchful eyes are turned westward to Sacramento and yet who dare not visit that city, for his Excellency has let it be known that those individuals who personally camp on his trail regarding appointments will stand a very poor chance of getting anything.

But why does he not make the appointments, they ask. Some of the choicest patronage at his disposal already awaits executive action, but he remains silent and does nothing to verify any of the countless rumors that are going the rounds as to his plans. The result is that everybody is at sea regarding the different places, and scarcely a day passes that some new contradictory stories about them do not get in circulation.

Take the case of the Code Commissioners, for example. Shanahan, Budd and Cammett, the incumbents, are holding on, hoping against hope that they will be retained, though it does not seem probable that they can, in view of the many stories that are afloat about their positions. One rumor says that the slate is George Denis of Los Angeles and M. M. Estes and Ex-Judge Van Fleet of San Francisco, while another couples Denis' name with that of Senator Morehouse, and mentions Fulwiller of Placer as the third probability.

From a good source, though, your correspondent learns that Frank Ryan of Sacramento will be one of the triumvirs. Ryan, who was formerly District Attorney of Sacramento County and who ran for Congress last year, is one of the State Library Trustees, and had he so wished could have been elected State Librarian to succeed Compton. That place, however, was, for political reasons, denied for Jim Gillis. So Ryan stepped aside, with the understanding, it is said, that he would be equally well cared for later on.

Gossips at the time said that the plan was to place him on the Superior Bench of Sacramento county in the event that Justice Clark's serious illness prevented him from resuming his labors, but this prospect was shortly afterwards effectively dispensed of by the announcement that Clark was steadily on the mend. As in withdrawing from the State Librarian fight Ryan had done so with good grace because he was anxious to be in some business where he could follow up the practice of his profession, the general impression prevailed that something good in the legal line would be found for him later on.

A Code Commissionership would be just the thing to fill the bill under the circumstances, therefore, and that is probably why Ryan's name is now connected with one of the places. Under the system of work adopted by previous incumbents there is no occasion to be on duty permanently at the main office but, instead, all the work can be done at home. Each Commissioner is, in point of fact, a chapter to revise and edit, and when a certain percentage is completed the full Board meets and the work of each is passed on to the other two. It is an easy and pleasant way for a lawyer to add $100 a year to his income. So it is little wonder that such keen competition takes place every two years for the three places.

A LIBRARY STORY.

Mention of Ryan and the Library brings to mind the recent changes effected by the Trustees. Some of the Democrats are sore at heart because of the recent Library fight. Gillis in removing Mrs. Neall, Ex-Governor Budd's sister-in-law, for they say that he thereby went upon personal obligations. The story goes at the time Ed McCabe resigned the private secretaryship to the Governor and became State Librarian, he was requested by Governor Budd to give Gillis a deposition at $50 a month. As Gillis is a Republican and the controlling powers were at the time Democratic, McCabe scarcely liked the idea of giving an appointment outside of his own party, but finally did so out of deference to the Governor. McCabe's other personal deposition then went to Mrs. Neall, the Governor's sister-in-law.

When, therefore, the other day Gillis was elected Librarian, McCabe hurried up and requested him to return to Mrs. Neall in her position, but when the appointments were made public it was seen that he had gone. It is probable that he did it under pressure from the Trustees, but those who knew all the circumstances of the case say that if there was any way to save her he should have exerted himself to do so in view of the favor conferred upon him during the Budd administration. Before they pass judgment upon the case, though, they are going to interview Gillis and see what he has to say on the subject.

TIDE LOCAL CAMPAIGN.

Ex-Governor Budd, by the way, is living very quietly over here, for although he gives most faithful attendance as Attorney for the Board of Harbor Commissioners, he is not engaged in private practice. He has not yet recovered his health by a long way, and his medical advisers want him to take life as easily as possible, for the next year or two, anyhow.

Budd, however, will undoubtedly be heard from in the approaching municipal campaign, for many of his friends are armed for the strife, and, in addition, he realizes the importance of making Democratic control of the city, if possible under the new charter. Whether or not though, he will lend a hand to Phelan is extremely doubtful, for there are those who say that his hand would rather be turned against the Mayor than for him, although, of course, if a party nominee he would not hesitate to stand up for Phelan on the stump if necessary.

The alliance between Phelan and McGuire is, in truth, the most important that has happened so far in that line, for each man is personally very strong in San Francisco, and the combination of their forces would be practically irresistible so far as the nomination from the city is concerned.

Phelan, extremely doubtful, for there are those who say that his hand would rather be turned against the Mayor than for him, although, of course, if a party nominee he would not hesitate to stand up for Phelan on the stump if necessary.

But, to return to Budd. The convention, which had started out on the main systems by which he had attempted to break the races, shifted into the various methods adopted by those who on mathematical propositions "attempt to knock out the faro games."

"The warmest thing in the line of beating a faro game that I ever ran across," said Rainey, "was in Sacramento, to 'way back in the 50's. Play used to be pretty stiff in those days, and it was nothing uncommon to see the house take the limit and turn cards for bets running far into the thousands of dollars."

"On this particular evening I dropped into the game to pass away a little time and pick up a few dollars if luck went

Mrs. Clark further states that she was compelled to spend $75 for doctor's services, $40 for board and $4 for drugs. She asks besides these expenses, $2000 damages. She is represented by H. S. Aldrich and W. H. H. Gentry.

"What of it?" I asked.

"Well, I'd made up my mind that the game was crooked, and if I had lost that last bet I put down on the seven and a half, I'd blow the top of that deal out of the water."

"What?" said Rainey to his auditors, as he wiped his brow remorsefully. "If you don't think the cold chills ran up and down my back as I thought how near I had been to being mixed up in a gun fight, it gave me such a scare that I didn't get near a faro game again for a year."

It looks as if Mrs. Frye will have to do the apologizing. President Jordan has certainly gone her one better.It is a remarkable thing that whenever

Of course it is only a coincidence, but it

rather a hard blow to the local insurance

FABIOLA DAY.

With the close of the racing season is to come the Fabiola Day that has now apparently become a settled institution in the arrangements of the California Jockey Club. The generosity that is attached to a benefit of the kind is evidenced by the fact that last year the occasion netted Fabiola between $1,000 and $5,000, thereby enabling it to meet many of its pressing necessities and to widen
the scope of the good work it is doing in the community.The Fabiola racing day is a sequel of the May-Day entertainment given at the old Oakland Trotting Park a few years ago, when the outdoor plan of raising funds for the hospital was originated. It will be remembered what a number of social tangles and disruptions resulted from that occasion, but though it was proposed that nothing of the kind would ever be worked up again, the next year witnessed the placing of a similar entertainment before the public.When the California Jockey Club finally stepped in and transformed the dingy old trotting park into the superb race-grounds it is at present, it was feared that the Fabiola days would have to cease. An appeal to President Williams of the club, though met with the generous offer of not only the track but
of a day's racing entertainment, the services of the officials and the entire gate receipts free of charge. This same liberality has been again extended this year,
so the community should take advantage of it in the most thorough manner and make the day memorable in the annals of society as well as in the financial records of the hospital.Saturday next is the day set apart for the festivity, and meantime, elaborate preparations should be made for the Fabiola Day parade that has annually become a means of advertising our resources, wealth and enterprise. There need be little fears though, that the occasion will lack bounteous patronage in every regard, for the Fabiola charity is near to the hearts of the citizens of Oakland and no response is ever made with better grace to an appeal for help than when the beneficiary is to be that well-beloved institution.Hood's Sarsaparilla

A SENATORIAL STIR-UP.

The action of Governor Stone of Pennsylvania in appointing ex-Senator Quay to succeed himself in the upper branch of Congress is, in a way, the most important political move of the year, for upon the outcome depends the Senatorial representation of California, Utah and Delaware, the other three States where Legislatures failed to reach an agreement regarding the candidates before them.Governor Stone has based his action upon article 1, clause 2, section 3 of the Constitution of the United States, the exact wording upon which he is relying being as follows: "If vacancies happen,
by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any State,
the Executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies."It should be borne in mind, however,
that this is the exact section upon which the fight was made in the case of Corbett
of Oregon, and that the United States Senate denied him a seat, on the ground that the provision in question only conferred appointive rights upon the Governor where vacancies occurred during a recess. Where a Legislature had had an opportunity to elect and had failed to do so, it was held that it was to be interpreted that the State did not desire to fill the vacancy.There is some new blood in the United States Senate, though, and Governor
Stone proposes to give that body an opportunity to reverse itself upon what he considers its fallacious reasoning. His point is that not only the State, but the country at large is entitled to be represented by the stand that vacancies can remain indefinitely simply because certain legislative representatives cannot agree upon the same man.Whether or not the precedent set by Governor Stone will be followed by the Governors of other States where dead-
locks have occurred cannot, of course, yet be determined in any way. Governor Gage has expressed himself as opposed to making an appointment, though, if he considers there is a good chance that it will stick, he will undoubtedly do so. The next few weeks will, therefore, furnish momentous times for the politicians of California, especially in view of the peculiar conditions that attended the recent contest at Sacramento, and the talk that has since been going the rounds regarding an extra session.The bid by the Southern Pacific Company for the street railway system at Santa Cruz seems to put the stamp of truth on the stories circulated recently regarding the construction of a competing line between San Francisco and the city by the sea. The big corporation will work hard to make every possible way of doing so, for there is a nice little excursion business all along the coast counties during the summer months.The quicker that Pacific cable is laid the better. If it were in operation now there would have been no opportunity for the canard that has gone around the world, regarding the imprisonment of the German commander at Samoa, and we would be able to keep in close touch with matters that are of vital importance to us at this time. The next Congress should not fail to make the arrangements
necessary for the carrying out of the enterprise.Indeed, so considerable and so recognized an element among the patrons of our streets have bicyclists become that a very much doubt whether, as a matter of fact, they are all-powerful. City Council has the right to interdict the use of the sidewalks to this class of vehicles
in those cases where this roadway is not usable by them. For the rest, I presume that the law, as well as the judi-cational of good motives, is on the side of the anti-bicycle Councilmen. In order to protect the rest of the community from the dangers imposed by a few reckless and unworthy members of the bicycling fraternity, they have devised remedy that incidentally imposes un-derived hardship upon the great majority of its worthy members. That they might have found some better remedy, based more upon the way in which sidewalks
should be used by bicyclists, and addressed more directly to the punishment of the really faulty riders, I would fain believe. With this end in view I, for one, with no doubt thousands of responsible citizens, should have preferred to see a little further delay in the passage of the Watkinson-Burton revised resolution, resuscitated from the last Council meeting, all sidewalk rights to the good as well as to the wicked bicyclist.The fertile Pacific Coast has given birth to a new idea in insurance, one that promises much for the peace and comfort of the vast army of the employed in the business and the industrial worlds. This is a system of insurance against unavoidable loss of employment. It is proposed in consideration of the payment by the worker of a stipulated wages or salary of a stipulated sum to guarantee him in the receipt of his regular income for six months after he shall have lost his place, provided of course, that disaster comes through no fault or incompetency of his own.
The minor details of the plan need not be here enumerated. The system is to be available for both men and women workers. It is the idea of a California man, and has so commended itself that a number of San Francisco practical business men of high standing have organized the company that is to begin business in that city the coming week while its projector is still visiting the East to establish a desirably wide basis for its operations. One of the best features of the system is the interest it establishes on the part of the insurance company to act as an employment bureau for its displaced policy holders.
Of course, the guaranteed salary is only to be paid for such part of the six months as the worker shall be out of a position.Anyone who has ever felt or observed

COMMISSIONERS IN CONFERENCE.

Street Sweeping Contract Is a Puzzle.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE TONIGHT.

Clement Not Anxious
to Move to City Hall.

At a meeting of the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Public Works this morning W. H. Christie, William Fieldwick and E. J. Stoer, representing the Trustees of Emeryville, conferred with the commissioners regarding making a connection with the city sewers for an outlet to that portion of Emeryville served by San Pablo avenue and Adeline streets from Forty-first to the city limits.

They submitted a map showing where and how they wished to make connections and after some discussion the matter was laid over pending an investigation by City Engineer Clement upon whose report the Board's report to the Council will be based.

City Wharfinger Fred Murdock appeared before the committee by invitation regarding a petition from J. Pantosky for special arrangements which he could make the old Monitor Company at the city wharf during the dismantling and rebuilding of the old fire machine.

Pantosky desired certain arrangements for a special rate of wharfage. It was evident the receipts would be less than would accrue from the regular business of the dock. Murdock was instructed to inform the junk man that no special arrangement could be made which would in any way conflict with the ordinance governing the use of the wharf.

The matter of changing the City Engineer's office to the City Hall was brought up by the Mayor who suggested that as Mr. F. Findorfer was the one to be affected by the change it would be well to have a report from him. The Mayor stated that while he would be in favor of such a change he desired that no mistake be made.

City Engineer Clement stated that he would rather be in the City Hall if there were room but that the rooms suggested were about 200 square feet short on floor space.

At a suggestion of the Mayor the Engineer sent for a ground floor plan of the offices and pending the arrival of the arrival of the same the matter of street sweeping was taken up.

Mayor Show stated that after watching a test of the plan suggested for the sweeping of the streets it was found to be impractical. In view of this he thought it would be best for the Board to recommend to the council that the only possible reduction that could be made would be a reduction of the sweeping of outside districts.

After some discussion it was decided

LASHER HURT AT DEL MONTE.

Wife Once Created a Great Sensation in East Oakland.

Domestic Is Cleverly
Fleeced of Her Money.

Mrs. Mary Smith, recent arrival from Portland, Ore., has recited to the police a strange tale of the operations of a confidence man which she claims cost her $25.

Mrs. Smith came to Oakland in search of employment. A sister is employed by a Mrs. Henn of East Oakland. After arriving in this city, Mrs. Smith says she was attracted by a want advertisement and immediately answered it, the outcome being that she was engaged to act as housekeeper for J. R. Farris of East Oakland.

According to Mrs. Smith her employer began immediately to pay her marked attention, having entire confidence in him. Mrs. Smith says she readily loaned her employer $25, which she brought with her, and she sent to a sister in Portland for several hundred dollars more. She says Farris represented himself as a capitalist and promised to pay her well for the use of the sum, but that as soon as she gave him her money the man disappeared.

Mrs. Smith says he is now living on her money at the Liedt House in San Francisco. She tried several times to locate him there but finally despaired, and last night she reported the matter to the police, who are making an investigation.

DO NOT FORGET TO PAY YOUR TAXES.

The usual late rush to the Tax Collector's office has begun. All State and county taxes not paid by next Monday will become delinquent. Tax Collector Barber says that there is about $160,000 yet unpaid, but that there is always a number of heavy tax-payers who wait until the last day.

There will be a meeting of the Oakland Red Cross Society on Monday, April 24th, at 10 o'clock, in the Elwell room.

Stanford and Berkeley News From the Pros-to Contest in San Francisco.

Alameda:

BERKELEY. April 22.—The great Intellectual contest of the year between Berkeley and Stanford takes place tonight at Metropolitan Hall in San Francisco. Representatives of the two universities will debate the question: "Resolved, That the retention of the Philippines is contrary to the principles for which this Government should stand."

Stanford is on the affirmative side of the proposition, as is natural, considering Dr.
Jordan's well-known anti-expansion views. The Berkeley champions will,

of course, defend the negative. Besides the cash prize of $500 donated by J. K.
Moffit, the winning team will carry off a beautiful cup of solid silver, elaborately engraved, the gift of William R. Hearst.

The cup must be carried twice out of three times between the property of either university. President Kellogg will preside, and the public is invited to attend. The contenders are: For Stanford—John Springer, James Ferguson and Anthony Suzio; for Berkeley—L. N. Golder, W.
M. Martin and Carl M. Warner.

At the meeting yesterday of the Athletic Association and the Associated Students the two bodies were merged in one which will hereafter have control of all university affairs. Membership is limited to those who have paid the annual fee fixed by the terms of the constitution at $1. None but members will be allowed to vote or to hold any student office. This does away with the need of petitioning

the Board of Regents to impose an assessment of 25 cents upon every student registering for a term's work in order to meet the requirements of the students'

Nominations for the position of treasurer
were also made at yesterday's meeting
Charles H. Reith, Peter J. Parsons
and Roy E. Dickenson were named.

The position carries with it a salary of $20 a month.

J. L. Scotchler and Cornelius Malone have been appointed by Prof. C. C. Pfeiffer as his assistants in the work of taking the Berkeley census. The enumeration begins next Monday.

Prof. Walter E. Magee, head of the department of physical culture at the University, will leave in a few days on a trip in view of the present quarters of the City Engineer.

After the committee had adjourned the Mayor said in conversation that he would agree to save the city $10,000 in the next ten years if the city would build the necessary additions to the City Hall to permit a rearrangement of the building so that all the city offices could be housed and the work carried on in a more systematic manner. He estimated the cost of the addition at between $8,000 and $10, 000.

Mayor Show stated that after watching a test of the plan suggested for the sweeping of the streets it was found to be impractical. In view of this he thought it would be best for the Board to recommend to the council that the only possible reduction that could be made would be a reduction of the sweeping of the streets of outside districts.

After some discussion it was decided to hold a meeting Wednesday morning at which time a resolution could be passed to send to the Council that evening, stating that Contractor Martin had agreed to a plan whereby $150 a month

could be saved.

The matter of moving the Engineer's office was again taken up and an estimated statement of the cost of moving was made out, showing that it would cost $500 to move the office to the City Hall.

During the discussion Mayor Show took occasion to call attention to the great need of the city of a fireproof room for the records of the city. He suggested that the hall should have an extension built on Fifteenth street which could contain fireproof rooms for records and also quarters for the Board of Health.

One of the great improvements suggested was the changing of the entrance to the Police Court to Fifteenth street, which called attention to the crowd of Police Court barkers, through which ladies and others visitors to the City Hall were forced to pass the gauntlet when they came to pay taxes, etc. He stated that he would not feel like recommending any great expenditure of the city's money
for improvements until some provision for a fireproof room were built and adequate accommodation provided for the proper housing of the city's officers.

Mr. Dow asked how about a new City Hall, to which the Mayor replied that he did not look for a new City Hall until the consolidation of the city and county government of which he did not believe would occur for ten years.

City Engineer Clement stated that he was willing and anxious to make any change that would be for the benefit of the city.

It was shown that the only way in which the Engineer's office could be accommodated was by taking all the rooms
now used by the Board of Education.

The Board decided to reprobate the facts in the case to the Council and await the action of that body.

In the meantime efforts will be made to secure a return in rent of the present quarters of
the City Engineer.

IN THE SOCIAL SWIM IN CITY AND COUNTY.

Weddings.

Receptions.

Parties.

Balls.

Luncheons.

THE MEDDLER.

They have really left me nothing at all to tell you of the Smith ball. Everything has been said over and over again, and every possible angle of view has been taken. Of course it was charming and everything was done for the pleasure and comfort of the unusually large number of guests. I do not remember any ball which has caused such a ripple of excitement nor any in a private house where the arrangements were so lavish. We have not run to balls much of late, you know.

Arbor Villa is very beautiful at all times, but was lovelier on Wednesday night than usual. It was a perfect night—warm enough for a garden party. The decorations were superb, simple in their elegance and every flower and shrub used was grown on the place. The head gardener designed and arranged all these floral beauties and deserved the praise he received from all sides. We all know the genuine hospitality of the Smiths, for it beams from their faces and makes their house a genial place in which to visit. I never saw Mrs. Smith look as well as she did the night of the reception and ball. It had been her intention to save the exquisite pink lace gown to wear on Marion's formal coming out, but the exquisite lace was more than any woman could resist and the rich costume was worn on the occasion of Miss Sperry's debut. Instead, for though it was not generally known, Miss Grace Sperry, Mrs. Smith's niece, made her formal bow to society on Wednesday night. Several beautiful bouquets were sent to her. She did not carry any of them, but instead carried on her arm a great bundle of bright pink carnations, which admirably relieved her lacey gown of blue. Marion Smith is a tall and graceful girl, perfectly self-possessed, and her delicate coloring is well set off by the pink she always wears.

One might go on describing the gowns ad infinitum. There were a great many new ones an almost very pretty ones. I thought the simple, fresh, mudish new gowns were much more effective than some of the out-of-date white satins worn by the young matrons simply because they were elegant once upon a time. Even a handsome gown may go out of style you know and elegance in the past tense is ugliness. Among the prettiest dresses was the one worn by Josephine Chabot, white, fresh, sheer, crisp and very becoming. Another fresh frock was worn by Belle Magoon, who received her congratulations and her honors as the latest dancer with great meekness and modesty. Miss Magoon's gown was white and pink, with one of the very latest overskirt effects which are so very swagged this spring. Mrs. Charles H. King wore a very handsome dress of applique—all in white, with a graceful train. Miss Pearl King wore a graceful rainbow cape which was brilliant and becoming. Sadie Sinclair looked very well in her elaborate white dress and Mrs. Pedar Sather was very much the grande dame in her elaborate costume of white with the pink aubretia and plume in her lovely white hair. It is useless to say that Mrs. Wheaton was perfectly stunning with a suggestion of thinmost spangled tulle over her beautiful shoulders and arms. The blushing girls were handsome—one in white satin and the other in bright pink. Miss May Perkins, who was with her father, the Senator, looked ravishingly pretty. One of the notable features of the new gowns made for the Smith reception were the many transparent sleeves that were worn. These are the latest thing in Paris and New York, where sleeveless gowns are entirely out again and, in truth, they are not the most becoming things in the world, especially when the arms are a bit too beefy, as are some of our California arms.

The menu cards for the Smith affair were attractive, and there were also little scenic programmes of the music which was very good. The menus were bound in ivorine with a bar of "Home Sweet Home" printed in silver and an oak bough with acorns, in green and silver, in honor of Oak Hall. The supper was delightfully delicious and it was marvelous the quickness with which everyone was served, but I would suggest to some of the thoughtless ones among us that it is bad form and exceedingly selfish to sit and chat for an hour or more at table while hundreds of other persons are waiting to be served. To be sure the dainty viands and the charming decorations were enough to invite anyone to linger, but true politeness implies thoughtfulness for the pleasure of others.

Also, I cannot lend the seal of my distinguished approval to bonnets at an affair like Mrs. Smith's reception. It is frightfully bad form to wear a bonnet at so formal an affair, and I was very glad that two of the three bonnets which reared their rebellious heads to spoil the tout ensemble of the room came from over the bay.

Mrs. Smith never tires of well-doing and so she has issued invitations, mainly to the members of the church and congregation of the First Congregational Church to meet the members of the choir of that church on Friday evening, April 28th.

Everyone was very sorry to note the absence from Mrs. Smith's of Mrs. Frederic Hall and Miss Cornelia Pringle, both of whom were on the honorary list of those who were to assist in entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Hall were detained at home because of the death that afternoon of Mr. Hall's uncle, our late Congressman, S. C. Hibborn. Mr. Hall was very much attached to Mr. Hibborn, who was not only his uncle but his law partner and stood to him something in loco parentis. The death of Mr. Hibborn, though not sudden, was unexpected.

The untimely death of Mr. Hibborn caused Mr. and Mrs. Hall to recall their invitations to a heart party which was set for next Tuesday evening and which will be given as soon as the period of mourning is passed.

Miss Nina Pringle's absence from Mrs. Smith's and also the absence of Will Pringle and his fiancee, Belle Hutchinson, was caused by the severe illness of Mr. E. J. Pringle, the head of the family.

There were a number of important dinners this week, the most interesting being the one given by Mr. and Mrs. William Magee at their home in Fruitville in honor of Miss Belle Magoon, who is soon to be the wife of Fred Magee. The table was prettily decorated with red roses in honor of the lovers. The guests, all married except the three engaged couples who are being so much feasted and toasted of late, were Colonel and Mrs. Oscar F. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Maria Rejina, Dr. Herbert Moffit, Miss Marguerite Joliffe, Alexander Baldwin, Miss Grace Glascow, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Magee Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Will Magee, Miss Belle Magoon and Fred Magee.

There were several other dinners, among them one given by Mrs. W. E. Goodfellow last night, which I shall have to tell you about later, one by Mrs. Belcher, in honor of some Eastern friends of hers who are staying at the Palace, and one by Mrs. Moffit, also last night. Friday night seems to be the night for dinners, which is bad for me, being so late in the week that the subject is worn threadbare before I get my chance at it.

Some swell luncheons also brightened the early part of the week. Mrs. Duncwoody was hostess at a smart affair on Monday which was given at the Piedmont Club House. The luncheon was a pretty return compliment on the part of the substitutes of the Cosmos Club to the members of the club, and was a very delightful affair. Mrs. Sather and Mrs. E. M. Smith being specially honored guests.

On Tuesday Mrs. William Clift followed this luncheon with another at which all the matrons were guests. Among those present were Miss Mary Barker, the Misses Mona and Laura Crollin, Miss Lillian Strong, the Misses Ellen and Hattie Roberts. Among the guests were Mrs. Thomas A. Crollin, Mrs. O. P. Downing, Mrs. F. M. Dunwoody, Mrs. F. M. Hathaway, Mrs. Harry Hinckley, Mrs. Robert Knight, Mrs. M. W. Kales, Mrs. George Magee, Mrs. Valentine Hines, Mrs. Walter Henry, Mrs. George Whaley, Mrs. H. O. Trowbridge, Mrs. J. D. Dean, Mrs. J. W. McClure, Miss Johnson, Mrs. Allen Babcock, Miss Folger, Mrs. Socrates Huff, Mrs. Frederick Merritt, Mrs. Mrs. Durkee, Mrs. T. L. Barker, Mrs. Farrell, Mrs. William Clift, Mrs. Thomas Magee Jr., Mrs. J. G. Allen, Mrs. N. A. Weston, Mrs. Augusta Breen, Miss Huff, Mrs. Ethan Stover, Mrs. Jennie Steele, Miss Alice Roberts, Miss Carrie Roberts, Mrs. Gove Roberts, Mrs. Harry Meek, Mrs. Will Meek, and Mrs. George Alsworth of Portland.

THE CLIFT LUNCHEON.

Mrs. William Clift gave a pretty luncheon on Tuesday, at her home on San Pablo avenue, complimentary to Mrs. E. L. Doran who is a guest of Mrs. William Meek of San Lorenzo.

The decorations of the table were extremely pretty, being of red carnations and maiden hair fern.

Those who enjoyed Mrs. Clift's hospitality were Mrs. E. L. Doran, Mrs. Roberta Kynard, Mrs. Albert Sutton, Mrs. Matilda Beale, Mrs. F. G. Lukens, Miss Eva Lukens, Miss Jessie Chappell, the Misses Mona and Laura Crollin, Mrs. Evelyn Lumborg, and Miss Elizabeth Clift.

MISS KELLOGG ENTERTAINS.

Miss Ethel Kellogg entertained a number of her friends, at a charming little luncheon, last Friday.

The pretty spring blossoms were most daintily arranged, and all the appointments were in exquisite taste.

The young ladies seated at the table were Misses Jessie Rawlings, the Misses Josie and Kate Crollin, the Misses Margaret and Lucy Moffit, Miss Helen Durkee, the Misses Margaret and Sadie Sinclair, Miss Annie Clay, Mrs. R. L. Stephenson and Miss Ethel Kellogg.

ADA LINTON'S LUNCHEON.

A pretty luncheon was given on Wednesday by Mrs. Ada Linton at her attractive home or Vernon Heights, complimentary to Miss Jane Watt.

The flowers used were unusually fine, and the table was quite a picture with its pretty china and delicate accessories.

The guests were Miss Watt, Mrs. J. H. Watkinson, Mrs. John E. Meek, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. John C. Hayes, Mrs. Johnson, Miss Annie Miller, Miss Del Premer, Miss Whitney and the Misses Herrick.

MISS RAWLINGS ENTERTAINS.

The Piedmont club house was the scene of a pretty dinner on Wednesday of last week, when Miss June Rawlings entertained a number of friends. Miss Helen Daggett was the guest of honor, and the bright young people had a merry time.

The decorations were of pink roses, and the table looked extremely dainty.

Miss Rawlings' guests were Miss Helen Daggett, Miss Annie Clay, the Misses Margaret and Sadie Sinclair, Mrs. Robert Lee Stephenson, Miss Kellogg, R. L. Stephenson, Fred Stephenson, Will Ede, Steuart Rawlings, Henry Nichols, Hubert Selby and Mr. Clay.

RANSON-PENNELL.

A pretty wedding took place at the First Presbyterian church last Tuesday evening, when Miss Charlotte Ransom, and Louis L. Pennell, son of General W. T. Pennell and Dr. Eddie Reynolds, said to be the only widow who held a commission during the Civil War. General Bennett represents the National Red Cross Society and Dr. Reynolds, who also goes to Manila, is a physician. They are very interesting people and the reception was a charming one and largely attended by ladies and gentlemen interested in Red Cross work.

Miss Isaac Requa, in a very handsome gown, headed the Oakland contingent, among which was Mrs. Lemon and Mrs. Bunnell.

The very many friends of Miss Catherine Harrish, who has been very ill, will attend the wedding.

Berkeley Students Grossly Insult The Faculty of the State University.

WELL, the editors of "Blue and Gold," just issued, are arrested under the provisions of the new signature law they have so flaunted result from the biting satirically violated; will exonerate and ridicule heaped upon the professors, or will the faculty smile and ignore the fun made of the members? These are the questions uppermost in the University mind just at present, and which are causing some of the editorial staff of the college publication to shake in their boots.

The 1900 "Blue and Gold" is what might be termed "hot stuff"—in fact, it is red hot in some parts. Sage, gray-haired professors are lampooned unmercifully; instructors torn to bits by sarcasm, and almost everybody connected with the State institution is made the brunt of some joke or cartoon. Now the question is, what will be done with these young journalists?

Here is the way they greet the faculty in the publication:

Le Conte. Thou hast no winter in thy years.

No sorrow in thy song.

Sethell. A careless song, with a little nonsense in it, does not become a monarch.

Rising. Half his knowledge we must snatch, not take.

State. His words were smoother than butter, but war was in his heart.

Edwards. Since called the Paradise of Pools.

To few unknown.

Strongham. His legislative faculties immersed in the continuity of cogitation.

Merrill. I wish not to be troubled to return bows in the street, so I exclaim with gloe.

Clapp. All things done in form, of due observance and respect.

Dressler. He was stiff with all manner of theories and "isms" of no manner of use.

Brown. Public instruction all his time employs,

He guides its methods and its wage enjoys.

Sole. Your name—like maidens' curls—is in the paper daily.

Sanford. Scowling and growling will make a man old,

Money and fame, at best, are beguiling;

Don't be suspicious and selfish and cold—

Try smiling.

Voorsanger. He draweth out the thread of his verbosity finer than the staple of his argument.

Armes. That's what a man wants a wife for, to be sure of one foot as it tell him he's wise; but some men do without, they think so much of themselves already.

Rowell. Women alone can organize a drawing room; man succeeds sometimes in library.

Payman. They would none of my counsel. They despised me; reproach.

Jones. My only books.

Were woman's looks;

And folly's all they've taught me.

Miss Bontie. In the fullness of her charms.

Hart. Speak low, if you speak love.

Lawson. Good morning! Have you used Peary's Soap?

Malley. My boy ye may not alter or mistake,

I'm the prophet of the utterly absurd.

Haskell. That man that hath a tongue, I say, is he man.

If, with his tongue, he cannot win a woman.

Wileckynd. I cannot tell what the diehards his name is.

Nutting. Indeed, he looks older than he did, by the addition of a beard.

Arley. Day in, day out, from morn till night,

You may hear his bellow blow.

Bacon. My friends? I have no friends!

Flattery. He could distinguish and divide.

A hair twixt south and southeast side;

Maybeck. True, I talk of dreams,

Which are the children of an idle brain,

Beast of nothing but vain fantasy.

Flagg. The man that cares not for his fellow men is either a demi-god or a brute.

Soule. He hath strange places crammed

With observation, the which he vents in inaudible forms.

Not content with this, the Juniors pole more fun under the heading of "The Lucky Hand." Six cards are shown as the lucky hand for the Freshman to play. In these are pictures of Professor Gayley as the King of Broken Hearts, Colonel Edwards as the Jack of Hearts, Professor Soule as the King of Diamonds and William Carey Jones as the Jack of Hearts. The other cards are the deuce, if the Freshman is advised to play, if he desires to leave college, and the money bag represented by the ace of spades. With these illustrations is the following:

"My son, you are about to enter college. With my parting blessing, I below upon you this little deck of magic cards, which the God of Wealth and Posse gave me as a reward for my years of toil. Heed carefully my directions for the use of the mystic talisman and your every ambition in college may be realized.

"As a Freshman, you will, no doubt, desire to make some Frat. Play this Act of Trumps, and learn how your fellow man loves you. The honors of Forensics with its models glories, may be yours, if you but lead this debonair King of Broken Hearts. Should your ability lead you to aspire to athletic success, then here's the card. The King is high in this suite. Would you be a Colonel? Phrasse with the Jack; it will not fail to bring the trick. And so I might run through the deck. A little bluff with another J. and behold! a Hearst Scholar.

"But, my son, beware! Danger and failure lie in the same deck. If you would be violently elbowed back to the paternal bosom, just play the deuce.

"Thus, you see the whole realm of collegiate activity spreading out at your feet—and the whole thing due to this magic little hand. It has been tried in the past and not found wanting. There is no combination known, but can beat it.

"Remember the cardinal principles of the game: Bluff all the time. Have your nerve with you, and be always confident, for success will come in the end.

"One final word in closing: I received these cards on my own merit, but it is not necessary for you to have the same qualifications. The fact that you are your father's son will give the cards a lasting value."

Scattered through the volume are other bits of pen-stuff which the Professors do not like. Under the caption of "What I the title of two pages of a most personal nature from which the following are excerpts:

"How Professor Bradley caught up with a young lady on the campus" and said: "Good morning, and—

"How the young lady turned with indignation and replied: 'Young gentlemen shouldn't speak young ladies without introductions!'

"How Harold Bradley, when this joke was suggested to us, cried: 'Oh, don't! The blow will surely kill poor father.'

"How a certain amorous Greek Professor proposed to young lady leg-puller after the class, and—

"How he wept at her refusal."

POOR PUTZKER.

Then under an advertisement for an imaginary "Blue and Gold" advertising agency, the following, among others is printed, as purported recommendation of the concern:

Blue and Gold Advertising Agency.

Dear Sirs—I am forced against my will (as usual) to add my mite of testimony in behalf of your advertising agency. I am here already now in dis University 25 years gewesen ant h' not had a single kind word said to me by anyone connected with it. Especially h' I received favorable press notices from year to year in the Blue and Gold, but your system is de most speedy and yields de biggest returns known to man. Mr. Case, Editor of "The Blue and Gold," entirely ignored me, which has stopped me to do me, ant please be so kind and sent me ten (10) copies of your book. I would like to cut out my personal notices ant paste dem on my passage next year ven I go to Germany. I am,

News and Notes of Single Tax.

EDITED BY EDGAR POMEROY.

"If I'm designed you fording's slave,
By nature's law designed,
Why was an independent wish
Ever planted in my mind?
If not, why am I subject to His cruelty, or scorn?
Or why has man the will and pow'r
To make his fellow mourn?"

"The crowds in the galleries in the meantime had increased and there were at least 5,000 people in the hall. The meeting of Henry George's name evoked an extraordinary demonstration. — Extract from special dispatch to Examiner of the Bryan Dollar Diner.

The heckling received by the County Single Tax Society at the hands of the Henry Clay Debating Society was thorough and merited. To climb up on a platform and stand up for a tax would do. If in desperation, without attempting to prove it by argument is not debating and unless the single taxers can fall from the clouds and come to earth; in other words, unless they remember that, fallacies as are many of the absurd arguments against natural taxation, many will swallow the objections without ever analyzing them, and that the advent of the single tax without quickening a pulse or awakening a hope around them. The people want to know how it will work and how it is to be operated.

are highest there it is most difficult for wealth producers—that is to say, the working classes—to live. The result of this is that the small property owner, which produced by the joint efforts of the community, goes into the coffers of the earth-owners, and not into the public treasury, where it belongs.

On the other hand, this misappropriation of community earnings is accompanied by a system of taxation on improvements and personal property which is nothing less than legalized robbery. It imposes all taxes and penalties on the entrepreneur for doing something useful, and on the other hand, gives to the man who produces by his or her honest efforts the necessities or the luxuries of life.

Just at this time, instead of trying to establish better industrial conditions in our own country, this Government is busy making improvements in Cuba which will further enrich Spanish and American landlords whose chief aim in life is to pile up riches earned by others.
